

Free Spring Seminars and Events 2019

Please call to register at 937-426-0861.

Saturday, March 9 10:00

The Wide Wide World of Houseplants

The interest and enjoyment of houseplants just keeps growing! (Pun unavoidable). Dan from one of our best suppliers, Tri-State Foliage in Cincinnati, is back again to share the newest varieties and trends, as well as practical care and upkeep tips. There's more to love than just Peace Lily and Fiddle-Leaf Figs! Call to register.

Saturday, March 16 10:00

Love Connections in the Garden: Perfect Pairs of Perennials, Trees, and Shrubs

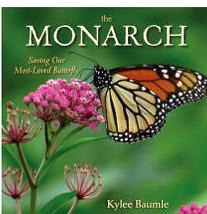

The Knollwood perennial and nursery team have been collaborating to bring you their favorite matchups that look great together and enjoy each others' company. Whether you need to match some accent plants with your existing shrubs, or plan a whole new bed, this presentation is for you! Please call to register.

Saturday, March 23 10:00

High Impact/ Low Effort Annuals.... New Ideas You'll Love

No contest: annuals can give you that major Wow! factor with their abundance of color. On the flip side, some of them can be bit, shall we say, high-maintenance? Pam Bennett, Clark County extension agent, program developer, and author, is here to share her list of the latest and greatest low-maintenance annuals: the ones with lots of personality but that are still easy on the gardener. Please call to register.

Saturday, March 30 10:00

Our Most-Loved Butterfly: The Monarch

Award winning garden writer, author, and speaker Kylee Baumlé will be sharing one of her favorite topics: the life and plight of the Monarch butterfly. Their fascinating life cycle and what we can do and plant in our own gardens to have a positive effect on Monarchs and other living things in our environment is a topic we can all learn from. This beautiful presentation is a can't miss! Stay for book signing, selling, and conversation into the afternoon. Please call to register.

Saturday, April 6 10:00

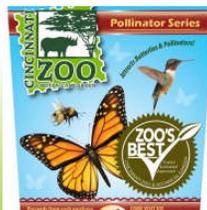

Hosta Love and Lore

We have no idea how much we don't know about Hostas, but Bob Iames, President of the Miami Valley Hosta society will fill us in! His Powerpoint presentation goes into the history, culture, care, and use of this perennial shade garden hero, as well as dispelling common myths and highlighting exciting new varieties and the perfect companion plants to make your shade garden shine. Call to register.

Garden Party Saturday, April 13 10:00 Proven Winners: Not Just For Annuals Anymore!

You've no doubt seen the Proven Winners logo in magazines and television ads, as well as on pots and containers of exciting plants here at Knollwood. Jessica DeGraaf from Proven Winners is here to explain why they truly are special varieties, how they are developed and what it takes to become a Proven Winner annual, perennial, or shrub! She will highlight some of the newest specimens we'll have this spring, so be prepared to be inspired! Call to register.

Garden Party Sunday, April 14 12:00 Cincinnati Zoo's Best Plants For Pollinators

Another fantastic curated plant collection: Zoo's Best! Over years of plant trials and monitoring the beautiful gardens at the Zoo, these plants have been selected as "the best" for success in our local area, and for supporting pollinators in the garden. Scott Beuerlein, Manager of Botanical Garden Outreach and self-proclaimed plant-aholic, will highlight the knowledge gained from the trials and the plants available for sale at local garden centers like Knollwood. (Part of proceeds go to support the Zoo programs.) Call to register.